12. Contractors shall have at all times on the spot pointed out for their Stores by the Dep. Com. In cases where the article is of a perishable nature, or from some other cause cannot be replaced or retendered, either by the parties to whom the rations are due, or to the contractor, by waiting for a Board of Survey, the Head of the Department, or the Officer in charge of the party or parties for whom the rations are to be received, shall have power to reject such article or articles as are obviously of inferior quality or in improper condition, it being distinctly understood that he will be responsible to the Government for so doing; and that the Contractor will have the right to appeal, although, in the mean time, he must take back the rejected article, and supply good in its place, failing which it will be obtained by the officer or party requiring it, and the expense charged to the Contractor.
15. It shall be in the power of either party to limit the duration of the contract, by giving, in writing, a notice of three calendar months to the opposite party, and to end the contract at the expiration of that period, it being understood that such a notice can be given only from the first day of any month, and within the period for which the Contract is made, or agreed to be made; and not later than the 1st of August.

The Contractor shall prepare his own each account monthly, according to the prescribed form; and shall receive payment on the production thereof, with the regulation vouchers in complete state, before the termination of the succeeding month, always excepting where any purchase shall have been made under the provisions of Article 14 of these conditions, in which case no payment will be made until the claim of Government shall be fully satisfied.
17. The Contractor shall be bound to furnish his accounts for provisions, &c., issued, within 14 days of the expiration of each month, and the same on due proof be drawn from the Commissariat chest at Sydney, within the succeeding month otherwise the Contract will be considered forfeited to the public.

To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald.

GENTLEMEN,—Allow me to correct a statement in your issue of to-day—Captain Ellis is not the purchaser of the schooner Albion, that vessel having been purchased by me for a lady resident in this city.

I am, Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
W. T. BOYCE.

NEW ZEALAND.—The schooner Mayva, from Tahiti, the 27th November, the Wesleyan Missionary brig John Wesley, from Rewa, the 13th December; and the schooner Sir John Franklin, from the Fejee Islands, sailed from Auckland on the 21st December. H.M.S. Dido sailed from Auckland for the Fejee Islands, on the 24th December. The schooner Ariel, from Sydney, the 2nd December, arrived at the Bay of Islands on the 24th, and sailed again for Tahiti on the 31st December.

The Albion reports having sighted a brig, supposed to be the Mauikin, hence for Auckland, the 7th December, about fifty miles to the northward of that port, on the 29th of the same month.

NEWCASTLE.—The barque Eleanor Lancaster was alongside the ballast wharf taking in ballast for Auckland when the vessel left port yesterday; and will probably sail on Sunday next. The schooner Mary Ann, Stanes, cleared out yesterday for Port Phillip, with 60 tons coals, and was only waiting a change of wind to proceed to sea. About twenty small vessels, with coals and ballast for Sydney, were lying wind bound in the river.

The Penguin Pack, Angelina, John Frisk, and Dispatch, were all at anchor in Watson's Bay, yesterday evening.

The steamer Rose spoke H.M.S. Rattlesnake, off Broken Bay yesterday afternoon, bound for Sydney.

THE BARQUE AURORA.—This vessel, from Manila, bound for Launceston, put into Jervis Bay on the 6th instant. From a private letter received by Mr. T. Mammatus, we learn that she sailed from the above port on the 27th September, ten days after which, the whole of the crew, with the exception of four officers and two Lascars, refused to do duty, and maintained the same determination throughout the voyage. Captain Hunt, however, with the assistance, contrived to navigate the vessel with the above number of hands, and taking the eastern passage, it was his intention to put into the port to obtain an addition. On arriving off the Heads, the wind being from the northward, he changed his mind, and steered for Twofold Bay, thinking he would be able to obtain what he required there, and at the same time be nearer his destination. When nearly abreast of it, however, he found himself driven to the south-west, and he was then compelled to bear up for Jervis Bay. Within a few hours after her dropping anchor, Captain Hunt died of inflammation in the bowels;—he had been in a bad state of health for a month previous, brought on, there is but little doubt, by the anxiety and vexation occasioned him by his crew. The chief officer, in his letter to Mr. M., also states that nearly the whole of the men are laid up with scurvy; and that in consequence of scarcely anything being procurable at Jervis Bay, he had himself walked over to Shoalhaven, where he was kindly furnished by Mr. Berry with a temporary supply of fresh provisions. On the receipt of these particulars, Mr. Mammatus immediately engaged six men to proceed to Jervis Bay, for the purpose of working the ship to her destination; and has made arrangements with Captain Lovett, of the brig William, to land them there on his way to Launceston, as also a quantity of ship's stores, and other necessaries for the sick.

THE BRIG Bridge to later news from China than that previously received, having been one hundred and five days on the passage. She touched at Barjoul Island, one of the Dutch settlements on the coast of Java, on the 24th November, where Captain Valvert learnt that a number of piratical prizes had been taken by one of the Government cruisers a short time previous in the Straits of Allas.

The celebrated four-oared pig Cupid, built by Rishyn, of Hobart Town, and sent up to Sydney for the purpose of running for the first class prize in the coming regatta, was yesterday sold by Mr. Mort for the sum of £16. Mr. Neirno being the purchaser.

The Rev. Walter Lawry, General Superintendent of the Missions in these seas, has returned to the John Wesley, after visiting the various stations in the islands. At Rewa, a sanguinary war has been kept up for a considerable time, and many of the villages and settlements have become depopulated in consequence; but at the other islands which have been visited, everything is tranquil. Christianity appears to have taken root, and is tending to produce a civilizing influence.—New Zealander, December 22.

NEW ZEALAND INTELLIGENCE.—AUCKLAND, DECEMBER 24, 1847.—EXTRACT of a letter from New Zealand. "The Dido sailed last night, at 8, for the Fejeejs Islands, as soon as she can be got ready, and there to remain until the middle of February, keeping a bright look out upon the friendly Fejeejs, when, if it is warmer, occasionally leave a few ordnance stores accidentally behind them. The Industrie departs for the South on Sunday (29th) with the Governor-in-Chief, Mrs. Grey, General Pitt, Colonel Mundy, and Ensign Wynyard, A.D.C., who will, I am given to understand, visit every settlement in New Zealand. During the absence of Mr. Grey, Colonel Wynyard will assume the gubernatorial reins. Immediately after his return, the Industrie proceeds to Sombay to be docked, calling and coaling at Sydney on her way thither. In all probability she will be relieved at New Zealand by the Medea, now in the China Seas. Till her arrival, or the return of the Inflexible, the services of the Calliope must be dispensed with, and as that gallant frigate's three years will then be nearly exhausted, it is most likely that her commission will be completed in the New Zealand service. The Racehorse is still at Port Nicholson, where, according to last advices, all was quiet."

The schooner Hannah and cutter Swan, having been put up to auction yesterday, by Mr. G. A. Lloyd, the former was purchased by Mr. Joseph Prior, for the sum of £530; and the latter bought in at £180.

EARL GREY AND QUIT-RENTS.

In our number of Saturday last, there appeared a Memorial to His Excellency the GOVERNOR from certain holders of land chargeable with quit-rents, representing the hardship to which they will be subjected should the Government proceed immediately to enforce their collection, and urging His EXCELLENCY to reconsider the regulations of 1846, with a view to their modification; or that, at least, he would postpone the enforcement of payment until the colony shall be in a condition to meet the demand. The prayer of this Memorial is supported by a clearness of statement and a cogency of reasoning which, had the local Government been at liberty to exercise their own discretion, would probably have ensured success; but it is clear from the COLONIAL SECRETARY'S reply, that of such discretion they have been arbitrarily bereft by the present SECRETARY OF STATE:—"His Excellency the GOVERNOR instructs me to inform you, that HER MAJESTY'S Government, having already disapproved of the very liberal concessions which he authorised to the holders of lands chargeable with quit-rents, by the regulations of 9th October, 1846, His Excellency regrets that he does not feel at liberty, under the instructions which he has received, to entertain any proposition whatever for a relaxation of any part of those regulations."

Hence it follows, that the payment of quit-rents must be enforced with unrelenting and indiscriminate rigour in all parts of the colony; that, a large proportion of the Crown debtors are in circumstances which render them absolutely unable to pay, there must be a wholesale levying upon goods, and chattels, which, under the circumstances, will be only saying that great numbers of industrious families must be turned out of house and home, stripped of their worldly all; and, finally, that the oblium of this cruelty must rest upon the head of my Lord GREY, and none other.

We believe that no statesman of the present day, Earl GREY excepted, entertains any doubt as to the original impolicy of these exactions. The system was nothing but a remnant of the old feudal relation between lord and vassal; and in its application to a young colony like this, where the aborigines territories had been by the Crown only in trust for the common good, and whose prosperity depends entirely upon the unfettered industry of its inhabitants, nothing could have been more absurd in principle or more oppressive in practice. This was tacitly acknowledged by the Governor Macquarie and his immediate successors, who, while they continued to encumber their deeds of grant with quit-rent reservations, continued also to foster the belief that the reservations were mere matters of form, no more intended to be put in force than that other precious reserve, the yearly visit of the Governor to Parramatta. Year after year elapsed, administration after administration passed by, without disturbing the general understanding; and when at length the Government thought proper to evoke the quit-rent shade from the oblivion into which it had sunk, and to clothe it with the attributes of a living and substantial claim, they found themselves enveloped in clouds of difficulties through which they knew not how to grope their "uncouth way." If their past inaction had been caused, not, as the people supposed, by a secret reluctance of the right, but by a spirit of temporary forbearance, the consequences proved the nominal kindness to have been a real cruelty. A single year's quit-rent might have been paid with comparative ease; but the accumulated arrears of ten, twenty, thirty years, amounted to a formidable sum—the more formidable from the ever having been forewarn or provided for. This was an evil for which the Government alone were responsible. It was not necessarily inherent in the system. It was their own superintendence, created by remissness in the performance of their duty, or, at best, by a leniency so pregnant with future inconvenience to the landholders, as with present injustice to the public finances. There, however, the evil was—staring them in the face, upbraiding their mismanagement, and mocking their attempts to grapple with and overcome it.

And there the evil was on the accession of Sir Charles Fitz Roy. It towered before him in more gigantic proportions than it had assumed under any of his predecessors. And it is but justice to add, that he faced it more manfully than they had done, and took bolder and wiser measures for its final demolition. The measures of Sir Charles Fitz Roy, as we noticed in our article of the 6th August last, by no means faultless, had this paramount excellence—that they provided specific means for putting an end to quit-rents for ever. Of this concession, of which the wisdom is more to be admired than even the liberality, Earl GREY has thought proper to disapprove. And, if we may credit rumours that have reached our ears, the disapproval has been signified in terms so unmeasured, and in a temper so snappish, as to exceed all the bounds which good breeding has assigned to official animadversion. If this be so, his lordship has done an ungracious thing in an ungracious manner. He has coupled insult with injury, and gone far towards provoking the resentment, the deep and abiding resentment, of a loyal and well-disposed class of the subjects of his Royal Mistress. Earl GREY's proceeding is the more unjust and offensive, from its presenting a broad contrast to that which the Home Government have pursued with regard to Van Diemen's Land, particularly the Van Diemen's Land Company. By a recent Act of Parliament, (10 and 11 Victoria, c. 57,) of which we gave an abstract in the Herald of Tuesday, HER MAJESTY is empowered to free and discharge that Company from quit-rents for ever, on the ground of its having, by the employment of convicts, exonerated the Imperial Treasury from a charge equal in the whole, throughout a period of twenty years, to £25,000; the said sum of £25,000 being calculated at the rate of £16 per year for every convict employed by the Company. Now, let the claims of New South Wales be in similar consideration be tested on the same principle. At the census of 1841 the number of convicts in private assignment was 13,000, or about one-half of the whole number of convicts in the colony. Twenty years previously, at the census of 1821, the total number in the colony was nearly 14,000, which, at the same ratio, would give between 6000 and 7000 as the number then in private assignment. We think, then, we shall not be far from the truth if we assume 10,000 as the annual average of the whole twenty years. At the rate of £16 per year for every convict so employed, this gives, as the annual saving to the British Treasury, the goodly sum of £160,000; or, throughout the period of twenty years, the enormous sum of £3,200,000! We have thus the authority of an Act of Parliament for asserting, that during the last twenty years of our subjection to the transportation system, the colony of New South Wales relieved the United Kingdom from a direct money expenditure of nearly THREE MILLIONS AND A QUARTER!

The Claims to be put in favour of Van Diemen's Land Company we sanctified to a total exemption from quit-rent in consideration of the paltry saving of £25,000, Earl GREY, in disproving of the conciliatory measure of Sir CHARLES FITZ ROY, and in consuming His EXCELLENCY for having resorted to it, has committed an act of royal injustice, and of unstatesman-like and disreputable inconsistency.

The prisoner pleaded guilty, as he did also to a second charge, which indicted him for stealing a mare, the property of John Blake, at the same time and place. He was remanded for sentence.

Patrick Farrell was indicted for unlawfully taking Eliza Andrews, a girl under the age of sixteen years, from the protection of her father, Abraham Andrews, and against his will, at Paterson, on the 8th December, 1847. Mr. Purefoy appeared for the defence; Attorney, Mr. Turner. It appeared that Abraham Andrews and his family lived under the same roof as Mrs. Chilcott, but that the house was divided off, and that the prisoner was a servant of Mrs. Chilcott's. Considerable intimacy had sprung up between the prisoner and Eliza Andrews, and early in October Andrews saw such familiarity between them that he forbid his daughter to have anything to say to him. In consequence the girl did not go into Mrs. Chilcott's house, as she had been accustomed to do, until the 12th October, when she was there when she was in there with the prisoner, and he persuaded her to take two glasses and a half of rum; after which the prisoner came into Andrew's house, and gave him two glasses of rum. The prisoner then returned to Mrs. Chilcott's, and the girl followed him. He persuaded her to run away with him, and as a preliminary step to go and fetch her clothes. She did so, and they left the house, and after walking all night, proceeded a public house kept by Mr. John Singleton, at sunrise next morning, where they took breakfast. The prisoner then proposed to the girl leaving her at the inn, but a friend of her father's, hearing of her being there, took her away in the evening, and on the morrow she was restored to her home with her mother. Neither her father or mother had ever given their consent to her marriage with prisoner, nor to her going away with him. Eliza Andrews deposed that after going a mile she wanted to return home, as she knew she was doing wrong, but the prisoner would not. Mr. Purefoy charged with the abduction on his return, he denied it, and refused to say where the girl was. Mr. Purefoy addressed the jury, endeavouring to destroy the credibility of Abraham Andrews, who he was instructed had consented. The Judge summed up, and the jury, after a long absence, found the prisoner Guilty. The prisoner was sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment in Newcastle Gaol.

William Ward was indicted for stealing four orders, the property of William Telfer, from a street, which was indicted for stealing four orders, the property of William Telfer, from a street, at Liverpool Plains, on the 12th December, 1847. Guilty; to be worked in irons for two years.

William Ward was indicted for stealing one box, two palettes, and thirty colours, the property of Charles Hodney, at Tamago, on the 6th November, 1846. Guilty; three months' imprisonment.

Court adjourned to Wednesday.

CITY COUNCIL.

THURSDAY.

PRESENT: The Right Worshipful the Mayor (in the chair); Aldermen Allen, Blaxland, Little, Tranlow, and Wilshire; Councillors Sillitoe, Neale, Henderson, May, Ryan, Smith, Moore, Wyndham, Allison, Egan, Hill, Hillyard, Kinsela, Paton, Moir, Tillerton, Brown, and Wilkie.

Leave of absence for this day was granted to Alderman Fisher.

REPORT.

Mr. SILLITOE, in the absence of the Chairman of the Lighting Committee, (Alderman Fisher), brought up a Report on the subject of lighting the city for the year ending 31st December, 1848, and moved its adoption.

CORRESPONDENCE.

The TOWN CLERK read the following letters:—

A letter from Richard Belford, applying for the situation of clerk of the George-street Market.

A letter from Mr. Struth, containing the names of parties willing to become security for the due performance of a contract to supply the Corporation with water piping, which were accepted.

Letters from Messrs. B. M'Loughlin, H. Davies, P. M'Cloud, H. Pendreau, and Michael Dunn, lessees of city properties, containing the names of persons willing to become sureties for the due performance of their contracts, which were accepted.

A letter from one of the collectors of rates, stating that a certain party had refused to pay from his residence in Clarence-street without paying his rates, and praying for a distress warrant to issue in the matter. A warrant was ordered to issue in respect of the city rate, (which it was understood the party was willing to pay,) but refused for the lighting rate.

A letter from the City Surveyor, respecting certain repairs required for the Hay, Corn, and Cattle Markets.

A letter from Mr. Martin, solicitor, demanding that the foot-path in front of Mr. Segerson's property, in Bridge-street, South, be restored to the condition in which it was before the level of the road was altered, intimating that if the repairs were not given to bring an action for damages, in the event of a refusal.

WATER.

Mr. EGAN moved, pursuant to notice, that all resolutions of the Council, adopting or confirming special contracts for a supply of water to premises requiring a large consumption, as recommended by the Water Committee be rescinded; and that from and after the 31st day of December, 1847, all special contracts for water be made by the Water Committee be restricted on a c'm. "Let the British Government give our ... and the colonists would gladly pay half of it there."

I would ask the most extensive and other employers of labour, to what they attribute the dearness, as they are pleased to term it, of the labour market; and more properly speaking, the difficulty of getting and keeping on hire the numbers they require? It is due to have the question seriously asked, but they have answered it erroneously. I will endeavour to set them right. Many of our large colonial firms are now, and have been, accustomed to have their wants supplied by the ... of the Mother Country; but they have none—and thus they ignorantly trust the management of their interests to men so ignorant of that business as they cannot run, and who blunder on, neglecting (because incapable of taking care of) the interests of their employers. The man engaged refer it into and sober hardly manly and looked after, is not are often made the instruments in the hands of their overseers for supplying some of the difficulties caused by the neglect or ignorance of the latter.

Some here! If you would not feel the scarcity of labour, keep your engagements with your servants to the very letter, whether as regards wages or rations; let the latter be of good quality and of sufficient quantity; and in paying them (it is seen you have agreed on, let it be done in such a way that their earnings may not be reduced in value by the irregular payment of ... given them for the same; neither; face them in such a position as to reduce the ... to the extent that the necessity of submitting to an extortion of some five or ten, a bel even more per cent. to get an advance, to which which perhaps they have to succumb to great privations. Most unquestionably the best article will command the highest price; the same with regard to labour, the great test of wages, and regularity in the payment of wages, will command a choice of labourers at a fair rate of wages. That this is the go and secret, and I fearlessly venture to assert on the practical experience of some dozen years, the 6 where the simple system has been adopted it is adopted in other stations, however distant, to alter the management of well-qualified and fair loss overseers, there would be no cry not fit for our; for what is it that we hear so many men in Sydney preferring casual employment there, to a permanent engagement in the interior, but the fear that their wages may be (as too notoriously it has been proved to be often the case) reduced in various ways far below the amount agreed on in the first instance.

I am, Gentlemen,
Yours, Confidently,
A SUBSCRIBER.

GENERAL SUMMARY.

(From the Mauritius Mail, November 11.)

An event of no small importance occurred at the Assize. On the 8th inst., the Court sat for the purpose of trying the prisoners, who were found guilty of the Assessors were sufficiently acquainted with the English language to take the oath. The Assessors were that all the prisoners, one after the other, were liberated on their own bail. The experiment tried by the Government was to introduce a few into the Legislative Council, and to "take" of the town are to prepare a supplementary list of jurors, for persons to fill the place of those who are incompetent from an ignorance of the language or otherwise.

On the 15th, the second reading of this new draft of Ordinance was brought under discussion. Some objections were presented against the 3rd article of the interdiction, complaining of the predisposition with which the measure was introduced, and adopted without a translation of the English language. The Procureur-General replied, that the English language was recognized as an order in Council; that the petition for an adjournment was not in order; and if there were any who hoped to obtain concession, it was not by proceeding as the authors of the Ordinance had done. In reading Article 1, he said, it was an error to suppose that the 20 acquitted prisoners were all replaced by those chosen from the list of 100; it was only in case of the number being insufficient from absence, exemption, refusal, or other cause. Not a single caste was tried at the bar of assize; this was a great gain, and required a ready remedy; this proposed was the most legal and for giving a fair trial to the accused.

Mr. Lord, who had been called falling from the Procureur-General he was convinced that the publication of Ordinances was decisive in an English colony no one could suppose that any other than the English was to be the official language; but as during thirty years no alteration had taken place, it was reasonable to hope that the change would be gradually effected with a sudden shock. Why not allow time for the establishment of another dual new language, and be taught to their children, in which object every possible effort had been made? The native born inhabitants were, by the new law, likely to be deprived of the right of being tried by their fellow countrymen. He blamed the Chief for the hurried manner in which the English language was introduced.

Mr. Keely defended the late assessors from any opposition what they were compelled to follow upon their ignorance of the English language. He complained that the supplementary list was proposed to be filled up from the town only.

After a lengthened discussion, the other articles of the Ordinance were passed by a majority of nine against three.

In the early part of the month the population of the interior of the town was in a state of excitement. A rumour had gained ground amongst the people that ... were sought after for the Ceylon Rifle Corps, part of which regiment was to be quartered in Port Louis, and in the barracks, and that their children would be taken by force. It was even said that wives or children, were missing, and one or three thousand of the lower classes thronged the street in front of Government House all the day of the 6th. After a short time, the rumour was found to be a mere idle fabrication; but two Government notices were issued, and presented before the minds of the people were tranquilized.

The second annual exhibition of agricultural and horticultural, instituted by the Society of Arts and Sciences, to novelty surpassed that of the previous year. The vegetables, however, were not remarkable for size and quality. As there are few fruits in season, that show was not abundant. The display of colonial wines had been better, but the rumour of the "epidemic" deterred many persons from bringing their chills. The specimens of colonial silk were of excellent quality, and evidence all we have previously urged in favour of the capabilities of Mauritius for the valuable production. Samples of Cochineal, Indigo, &c., all of superior quality, were exhibited. There were flowers in abundance, some of choice Kerguelen ... Judging from the improvement in the gardens in Port Louis of late years, there is every progress in horticulture. Young fruit trees are now coming into bearing—others only be seen with their rich foliage over the entire, and the ... of fruit and shade like buildings. The Agricultural Committee of the Society of Arts and Sciences are thanked for their exertions.

An exhibition of pictures is a novelty here. The first attempt took place last month at the College. Every one was satisfied at the numerous and meritorious exhibited, some of them by old, others by relatively young European painters. Our native and half-caste ... the opportunity to display their talent. The numerous copies of our island were delineated with ease and effect by Mr. Nash—two verdantly executed drawing to senior colonial ... of the Place d'Armes and the Government House, the other of the town from the Champ de Mars by Mr. Mimo were discretely ... school-pencil drawings of local scenery by Lieutenant Bailey showed great talent, many excellent colonial portraits, particularly those of Mr. and Mrs. Mimo were to the collection; the illustrations were not only striking, but showed a mastery of a superior order in the treatment. Nichols, Hamnet, Nash, and others are also entitled to their share of praise.

The exhibition of our staple produce deserves special notice. In the first prize of a silver medal was given to the best sample by any process was awarded to the ... Mr. Mimo were discretely ... Mr. Mimo were discretely ... Mr. Mimo were discretely
